SUMMA

THE graduating class of Belmont Senior High School presents the "Belmont Limited" in the 1956 edition of the BLUEPRINT. Under the leadership of an able president, skilled engineers, and the members of numerous executive departments, we journey through life at B. H. S. — classes, activities, and lasting friendships.

While we have been on our guided tour, these tickets have admitted us to many hours of enjoyment, but the knowledge acquired is our ticket to broader horizons in the future.

The BHS Railroad introduces President Higginbottom and makes public his annual report.

THE winding roadbed serves the railroad much like the guidance department serves the youth of the school. It is useful to those who seek its service for established vocations. For others, it leads to exploratory areas opening up new interests and goals. Its opportunities continue even to the time when rigorous schedules and clock hours no longer control the mode of living.

In retrospect, you and previous graduates have received encouragement and friendly advice as you have discussed and outlined your future courses with "Pop" Nagle. He has given generously of his time and his talents to others whose problems have not been as well defined. The affectionate slap on the back, his cheery smile, transportation for the ill, a visit to the hospitalized, employment for the willing and countless other services have endeared him to the hearts of present and former students.

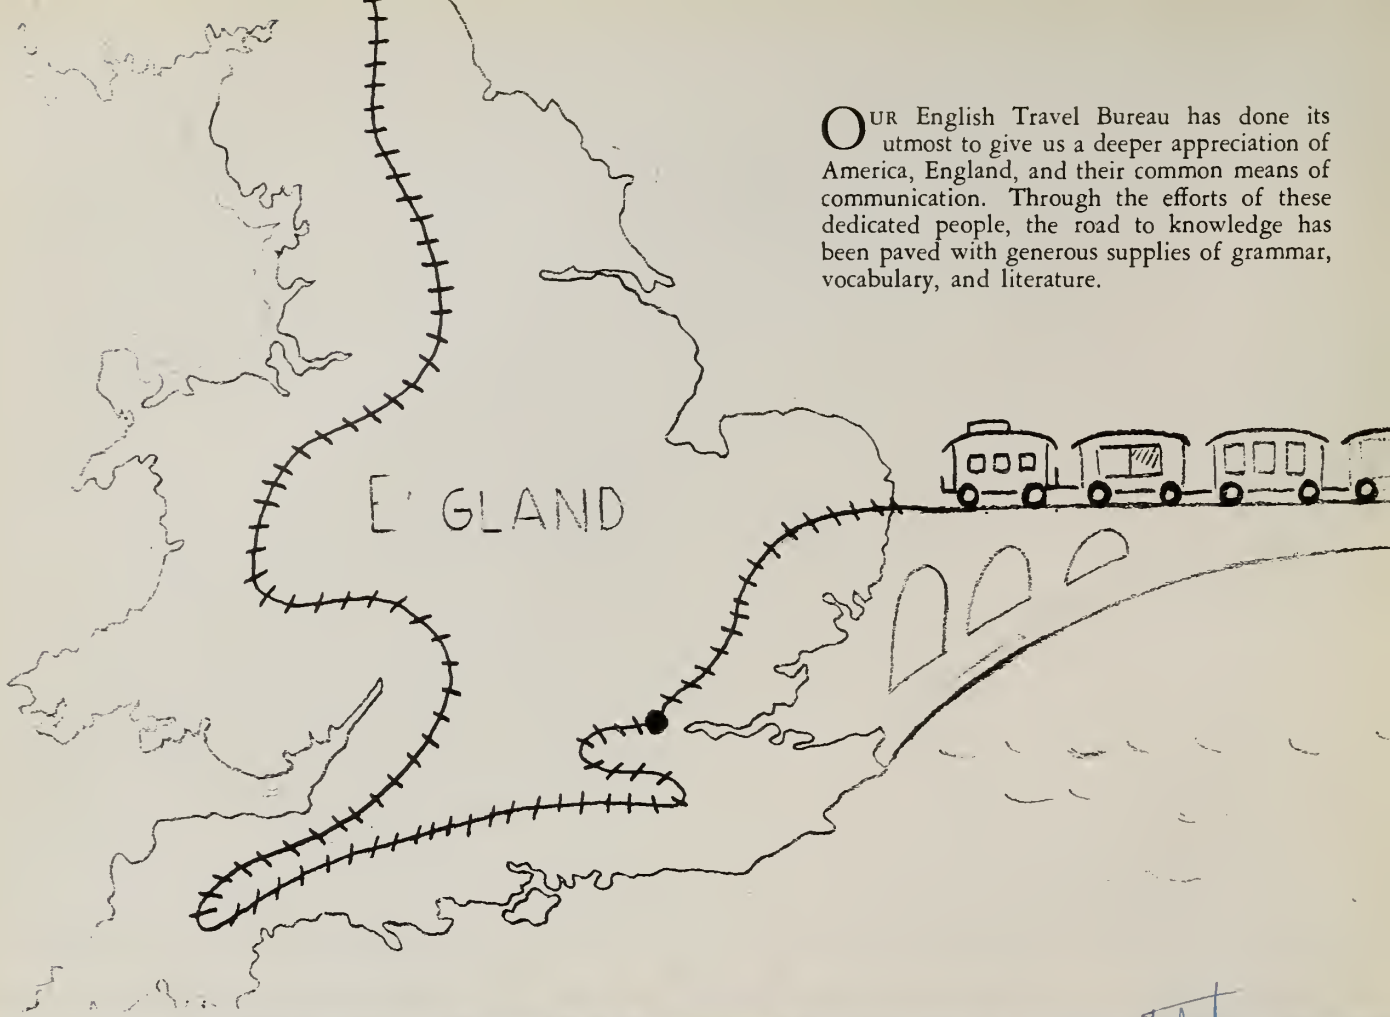

To you, "Pop", this book is dedicated, knowing that you are leaving behind a profound and everlasting service to youth. May the road unveil new vistas and untold happiness which you so richly deserve.

George Higginbottom

OUR English Travel Bureau has done its utmost to give us a deeper appreciation of America, England, and their common means of communication. Through the efforts of these dedicated people, the road to knowledge has been paved with generous supplies of grammar, vocabulary, and literature.

LANGUAGE is the key to human understanding. Through this medium the Foreign Travel Bureau has stimulated greater interest in European people and customs. Our knowledge of foreign countries echoes the inspiration of this outstanding board of experts.

WELL-EQUIPPED shops are needed to keep the wheels in motion. These master technicians have shared skills and knowledge of complicated operations with apprentices in electricity, woodworking, welding, and mechanics. They have always been on hand in emergencies to keep the tracks clear.

Whether Swarthmore or Vassar — that is the question. I hope that you find the best answer on your forthcoming trip — Prof. M. Meyers

THE travels of the "Belmont Limited" began in 1953 when we were eager sophomores — destination — 1956. There were many turns in the winding roadbed, but just around each bend pleasant surprises awaited us. In spite of the increasingly difficult ascent, we have reached our destination on schedule.

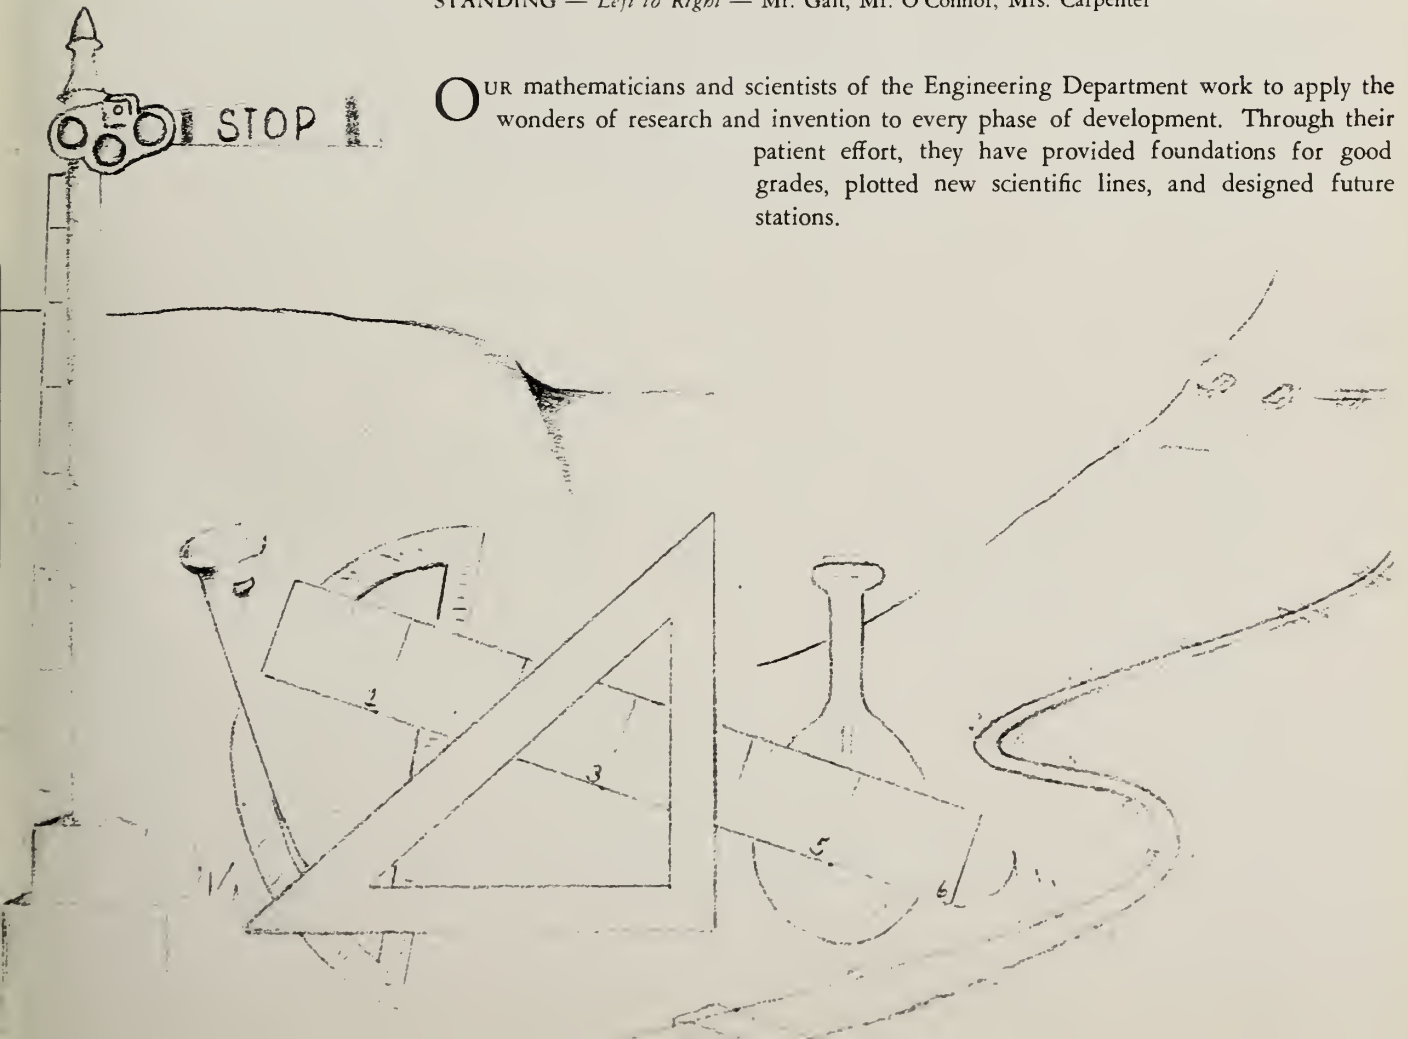

Throughout the centuries, man has aspired to peaks of achievement, and a review of his experiences has helped others to climb. Director Meyers and the capable members of the Department of Historical Information have revealed many stories of past triumphs and failures which have enabled us to better understand our modern problems.

OUR mathematicians and scientists of the Engineering Department work to apply the wonders of research and invention to every phase of development. Through their patient effort, they have provided foundations for good grades, plotted new scientific lines, and designed future stations.

SEPTEMBER

JUNE

THIS is the clock that has controlled our every move for three years. As our train has passed many milestones, its tick, tick, ticking has registered time on a larger scale.

Now still a vital factor in our lives, it points to that breathless moment — the signal for our final departure. Hold on, this is it!

MR. WILLIAM S. NAGLE

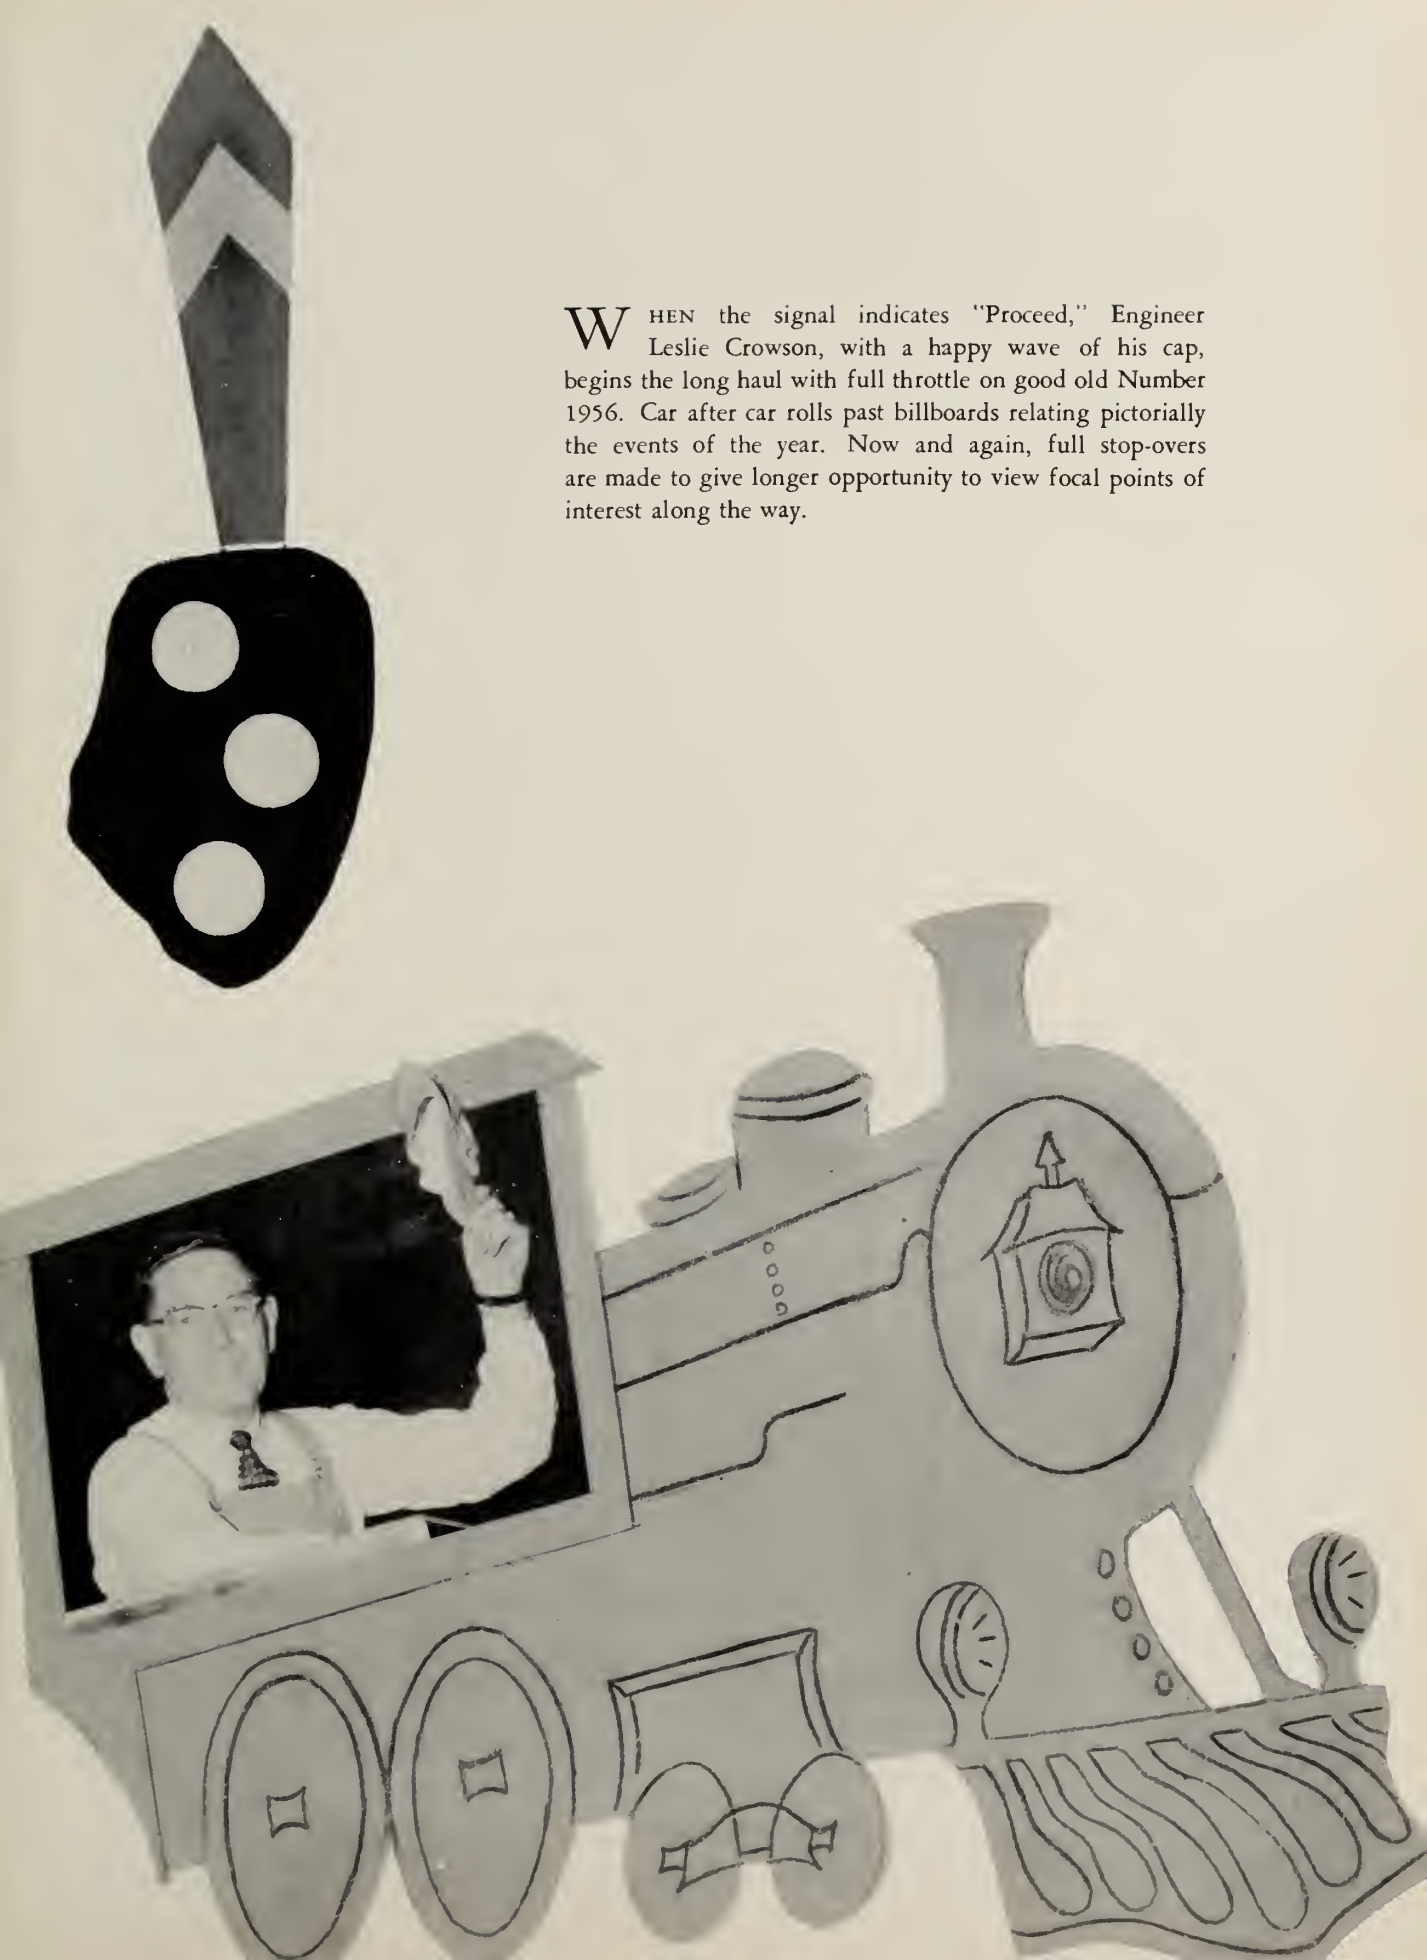

MISS DOROTHY M. ANDERSON

MR. NORMAN E. BRULE

RESPONSIBILITY for passenger assignments, reservations, public relations, and advertising has fallen on the able and respected shoulders of our veteran BLUEPRINT traffic managers. They have flashed the green light and our train is on its way.

WHEN the signal indicates "Proceed," Engineer Leslie Crowson, with a happy wave of his cap, begins the long haul with full throttle on good old Number 1956. Car after car rolls past billboards relating pictorially the events of the year. Now and again, full stop-overs are made to give longer opportunity to view focal points of interest along the way.

The future looms ahead as the Belmont Limited slows to a stop. Although graduation is the last station on the Belmont Line, it is by no means the end of our journey. Before us is the junction where many tracks lead to future paths. We, the departing passengers, think of those with whom we have traveled, knowing that we will never again ride the train together. We pause no longer; we have memories — and no regrets.

Railroad Designs by Elizabeth Harrison, Jean Palmer, and George Bryant.
